> Row of Nine Houses Sold for $15,000 Birthday Anniversary Celebrated-Other News.

Real estate matters and building operations are reported to be more lively in the western section of the city this fall, it is said, than for any corresponding period for many years past. into a modern apartment house. Another sale of property was effected Thursday, through Mr. John A. Heenan. The row of nine two-story brick dwellings on 28th street, at the northeast corner of Dumbarton avenue, were transferred to Theodore Barnes, and the consideration of the change of titie is placed at $15,000. The property was sold by Edward P. Berry and George W. Cissel, trustees, for a syndicate. IT NEEDS . OVERHAULING

Post Office Building to Be Turned Over to the Interior Dipartment.

Provisions of Constress for Moving Branches-Tons of Paners That Should Be Bestroyed.

Now that the Post Office Department has vacated the old building on F street between 7th and 8thestreets, the Interior De partment is casting longing eyes across the street. By act of Congress the building is to be used as the home of the general land office and the Indian bureau and such other departments as the Secretary of the Interior finds space to accommodate. With the land office and the Indian bureau the only other department to be transferred is the commissioner of railroads. This office is now occupying rooms in the pension office, much to the inconvenience of the latter.

As soon as the Postmaster General turns over the old building the Secretary of the Interior will take possession and begin to make the place habitable. As it is now the plumbing needs overhauling and the entire building repainting. There is an appropriation of $10,000 for this work and new furniture.

No plans have been made regarding the space in the new building, and all the de-tails will be left until after the Interior Department is in actual possession. The transfer of the general land office will give the Interior Department much needed space in its present quarters. The greater part of the space vacated will be turned over to the patent office, which even now is occupying outside quarters.

Crowded Out by Worthless Papers. Thousands of feet of valuable space are now occupied by monster file boxes, in which are stored copies of patents. It is estimated that fully 90 per cent of these are valueless, and only take up space. The law requires 100 copies each of every pat-ent issued. These are sold to the public at 10 cents each. Only a small percentage, however, is ever called for, and each year adds to the millions which have gradually pushed the employes out of rooms and nov occupy the halls and corridors, which should be left unobstructed. It is the desire of the Interior Department to destroy many of these old records, which have no value, but this is impossible without express authority by Congress. A prominent official, in discussing the accumulation of old records with a reporter of The Star, said:

Might Better Be Destroyed.

"The experience of the Interior Depart ment is the experience of all. There are tons of useless records that might as well be destroyed and tons which should be re tained for their historical value. But to burden the already overcrowded public buildings is not only dangerous to the health of the clerks, but had business. Congress should provide at once a hall of records, where all these old documents could be stored. The building should be erected somewhere on Pennsylvania avenue, easy of access; of course it must be fireproof. Such a building would pay for itself in a few years, for the government would save the rent it now pays for other buildings and give the nation another pub lie building of which it will be proud."
